MANY KINDS OF CACTUSES.

There are numerous varieties of the Thorny, Thick-Leaved Species.

From the Scientific American: Cactus is a genus of plants, the type of the natural order of cactaceae, and comprises numerous species, all of which are native to America. The name was originally given by Theophrastus to a spiny plant found in Italy. The stems of the cactus are usually leafless and fleshy, globular or columnar, and are armed with spines and bristles. The structure of many of the species is singular and grotesque in the extreme, and the roughness of the stalks and the beauty of the flowers make them one of the most interesting botanical curiosities of the continent. They are found chiefly in the hot, stony places of tropical America, and their tough and almost impenetrable skin incloses abundant juice, which enables them to support a struggle for existence without inconvenience even in a parched soil. Some of the varieties of cactus are only a few inches high, while others attain a height of forty feet. It is a curious fact that the cactus flourishes even at the foot of Mount Kila in Italy. The most splendid example of the cactus family is the giant cactus, of which a fine example is still standing, although it is slowly rotting and will soon fall. It was found at a point eight miles south of Phoenix, Ariz., near the Pima reservation. It is about forty feet high. What the date palm is to the African deserts, the giant cactus is to our own arid lands. From it the Mexicans extract a drink called "mesquite," and the Indians also obtain a beverage from it. On its fruit the Papago Indians live for weeks at a time. Woodpeckers dig their nests in the trunks and branches and doves feed on the fruit. When the cactus of this kind dies its usefulness is not destroyed, for the tough ribs beneath the outer skin are used by the Papago Indians for the foundation of their graves. It is not this species of cactus from which travelers are supposed to obtain a supply of water, but the small cactus which contains a plentiful supply of sap.

Soberly, I must apologize, sir, to me as a pom-pom. Well, I'll take you are not pom-pom.

PROGRAM

ARRANGED

CARNIVAL COMMITTEE OUTLINES PLANS FOR CELEBRATION.

The Fall Festivities Will Eclipse Everything This Year—Two Days' Carnival.

The Carnival association met at the Palmer house last night to make definite preparations for the celebration to be held here October 9-10. The following is the program adopted:

FIRST DAY.
10 a. m.—Naval parade.
2 p. m.—Boat race.
4 p. m.—King's arrival.
7:30 p. m.—Elks' parade.
9 p. m.—Fireworks.

SECOND DAY.
10:30 a. m.—Marchants' flower and industrial parade combined.
7:30 p. m.—Grand electric parade.
10 p. m.—Grand carnival ball—at one of the big tobacco warehouses.

For carrying out the program appropriations were made as follows:

Appropriated for king's arrival	100
Elks' parade	300
Fireworks	300
Marchants' parade	300
For floats	1,300
Ball	400
Musio	500
Advertising	15
Flambeau	50
Street lighting	500
Total	$4,815
Incidentals	500
Total	$5,315

The appropriations have been greatly increased over those of last year, insuring a much greater success than last year.

The carnival ball, which is to be given at one of the tobacco warehouses, will be the biggest thing of its kind ever undertaken in this part of the state.

Sufficient subscriptions will be secured to cover the expenses and the committee will meet again July 20 at the Palmer.

The soliciting committee has turned over the collection of the subscriptions to Mr. Will Farley, who will at once begin this important work. Subscribers should be prepared to respond promptly, that he may do his work as rapidly as possible.

The Sun is requested to state that the pledges are short of what the committee desires and efforts will be made to increase the amount. The larger the subscriptions the grander the carnival will be, and this fact should induce others to respond accordingly. If you are on the list, get ready to pay; or if you are not on the list, do your part and get there.

RELIGIOUS NOUGETS.

Whiners are not winners. Every man owes the world a life. Only the only are called to reign. It is better to suffer than to strive. We confess Christ by doing self. Sin shuts out our sight of the Saviour. The greatest are oftenest misunderstood. All other virtues are but handmaids of truth. We never prove our own religion by talking about it. All of God's power is pledged to help us to true greatness. Doubts decrease in the presence of duty. The friend of books is a good friend to have. Frank confession saves from final confusion. The path to unpopularity is named selfishness. They who say "yes" to desire will often say "no" to duty. Poverty of possessions need not be discredit; poverty of life always is.

A Valuable Collection of Old Letters.
There has lately been found in a town near Bridgeport, Conn., a valuable collection of old letters of nearly a century ago, among them several by George Washington, Andrew Jackson, Daniel Webster, Henry Clay, James Monroe, and John Quincy Adams. The letters were found among some old papers and books belonging to one of the oldest families in the state, and are in the best condition, although they have been stored away for nearly 100 years. The Washington letter was written to a Connecticut member of the family when the general was with the army on the Hudson river and pertains to the probable movement of his and the enemy's troops.

In the Case of Abolition Among French Workmen.

Paris Cable New York Journal.—The eminent physician, Dr. Jaquet, has caused great disquiet by reporting to a medical society facts which show an alarming increase in the consumption of intoxicating drinks by all classes of residents in the capital. He deduces from hospital investigations that 45 per cent of the cases treated are accountable for the abuse of stimulants. Dr. Jaquet reports that the increase in the use of absinthe among the working classes is appalling, many workmen having reached the stage where they require the poison with their meals as well as before lunch and dinner. He believes that the absinthe habit is responsible for the morbid irritability displayed by so many Frenchmen nowadays. The persons unprovided facilities for obtaining drink that exist in Paris, and the practice, rapidly becoming universal, of taking appetizers before meals are considered by Dr. Jaquet to be among the principal causes of the alarming growth of the drink habit. Women, in particular those of the lower classes, are especially inclined to join the ever-increasing army of tipplers by the fact that the temptation to indulge in stimulants meets them at every turn. A great number of small tradesmen, especially green grocers and confectioners, add to their income by selling intoxicants. Servants and others can thus obtain drink without frequenting the bars or winshops they would be ashamed to enter. Chemists, too, are capital offenders. They have taken advantage of the vogue acquired by certain much-advertised strengthening wines or "quinquinas" to push the sale of similar products of their own manufacture. Dr. Jaquet affirms that they often persuade their customers to take one of these concoctions, which are merely strongly alcoholized wines sweetened and with an admixture of kola, in the place of prescriptions ordered by a doctor.

The Cincinnati and Memphis packet line have withdrawn from the trade on account of low water. It requires a pretty good stage for their boats to swim. This company does not give as much attention to the trade as they did in former years, as the line of boats in the Cincinnati and Louisville trade has in the last few years almost completely monopolized their attention, as they have built and are building the finest sidewheel boats that ever floated, sparing neither pains or expense in giving the traveling public elegant accommodations. Their boats in the upper trade are very large and very fast. The Cincinnati and Memphis trade used to be the best trade on the western waters, but has been gradually retrograding for several years. If this company had not neglected their lower Ohio river trade so much they probably would have made big money.

Captain John Throop, of the R. A. Speed, received a letter this morning from his brother, Captain George N. Throop at Las Vegas, New Mexico, where he took his daughter, Miss Fannie, some ten days ago, for her health. She was a victim of that dread disease consumption and died last Thursday. She was 32 years of age and highly accomplished. Captain Throop buried his daughter at Las Vegas temporarily. He will have the remains taken up late this fall or early winter and reburied her at Mr. Vernon, Ind., his old home. Captain Throop retired from river life several years ago, and is now engaged in the railroad business at Chicago.

The Dick Fowler cleared for Cairo as per schedule this morning. She had a good trip of people.

The Clyde arrived from Tennessee river this morning with a big trip. She leaves tomorrow at 5 p. m. on return trip and offers a rate of $7 to excursionists for round trip from Paducah to Waterloo, Ala., and return, a distance of 560 miles. This is truly the most desirable trip offered by river out of Paducah. Elegant boat, courteous officers and the tables supplied with the best the land affords.

The John S. Hopkins from Evansville arrived and departed on return trip early this afternoon. She had good business in and out.

The R. A. Speed arrived from Cumberland river with 25,000 ties last evening and left for Tennessee river this afternoon. Captain John Throop in command.

The City of Memphis leaves St. Louis tomorrow at 5 p. m. for Tennessee river.

The H. W. Butteroff is due from Clarksville early tomorrow morning, and leaves for Nashville at noon same day.

The City of Clifton will report out of Tennessee river this evening for St. Louis. She is full of St. Louis excursionists.

Business on the wharf today was ordinarily good. River still doing the acrobatic act by a steady tumble.

The City of Goldconda left at 12:30 today with good business. She goes through to Elizabethtown.

The Monie Bauer left at 5 o'clock this morning for Trade. Water men in place of the Kanton, Captain Billy Edwards in command. He will bring out two barges of coal for the Paducah Coal and Mining Co. As the Cincinnati and Memphis packets have all laid up Mayor Lang and party took passage on one of the Cincinnati and Louisville packets last Sunday. They will arrive home tomorrow on the Joe Fowler.
